Y., and Dr. Winfield Scott Schley, son of the late Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley. The ceremony took place last Monday in the rectory of St. George's Church, Stuyvesant square, N. Y. No formal announcement had been made of the wedding, and it was celebrated quietly on account of illness in the bride's family. The couple's engagement was announced last November.

Dr. Schley and his bride will leave shortly on their honeymoon trip, and a reception is to be given for them at the home of the bride's mother, in November, after their return. Dr. Schley's home is at 21 West 45th street. His bride was graduated from the Packer Institute, and is prominent socially in the younger set in Brooklyn.

Her uncle, Charles Biddle, gave her in marriage. There were no attendants, and at the close of the ceremony only a small breakfast was served at Wyandott, the home of the bride. Later Bishop and Mrs. Codman left for a cruise on their yacht Calumet.

On their return from the wedding trip they will make their home in Portland, Me.

The vicar of the university, Rev. Dr. George A. Dougherty, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Eugene A. Hannan, pastor of St. Martin's Church.

The bride wore a smart traveling suit of blue chiffon broadcloth, with hat to match and corsage bouquet of gardenias. She carried a white bouquet of lilies.

BUSINESS MEN ROMP ON ANNUAL EXCURSION

Washington Chamber of Commerce Outing at Chesapeake Beach Is Successful.

Plenty of Entertainment Features and Good Things to Eat Are Furnished.

"The most successful and enjoyable outing in the history of the organization."

Such was the universal verdict upon their return to this city last night of the 200 or more business men who participated in the annual excursion of the Washington Chamber of Commerce yesterday to Chesapeake Beach. They declared that three factors were responsible for the success of the outing—the apparent determination on the part of every one to "cut loose" and have a good time, the luncheon and dinner arrangements, which had been supervised by Chairman Fred J. Mersheimer, and the weather, which was ideal.

Business worries and all pretenses of dignity were cast aside the minute the business men boarded the special train which carried them to the resort. Every one contributed to the amusement on the trip, but those who took a leading part in this respect were Odell S. Smith, George Wainwright, Edwin Joyce, Thomas Fisher, George Markward and J. Harry Cunningham. Sol Munster and his band kept the train flooded with American, German, Irish and Scotch airs, but strict neutrality was maintained at all times.

Plenty Good Things to Eat.

When Chesapeake Beach was reached the business men marched in parade formation, headed by the band, to the dining pavilion. Here Chairman Mersheimer announced that luncheon was in readiness. It was of the buffet sort, but the menu was so extensive that the repast was nothing less than a full-fledged dinner.

After this was over the crowd scattered, some heading for the bathing beach, while others remained in the vicinity of the pavilion to engage in athletic contests. Roy C. Claffin won the team race with Peter Loftus a close second. John Graft was the victor in the fat men's race, and John C. Roanyn took second honors.

Nearly 100 of the picnicers went in bathing. Secretary Tom Grant produced two large rubber foot balls, and a game of water polo was staged. Upon returning to the pavilion later in the afternoon the balls were used for a foot ball game. Dr. Barry was loudly applauded when he punted over the roof. B. Frank Wright showed his skill at tackling.

Participate in Game.

Then came a game of "pitcher, catcher and knocker." It started with the specified number of players, but before long there were more than twenty fielders, and a home run was a thing unknown. Only the speediest runners managed to reach first base. P. T. Moran, president of the Chamber of Commerce, umpired on the bases. Seated in a large rocking chair, C. J. James umpired at home plate. Among those who started in the game were Lewis J. Battle, Joseph D. Sullivan, A. Lettwich Sinclair, J. Harry Cunningham, Tom Grant, Charles L. Howser and Louis Ottemberg.

Shortly before 4 o'clock dinner was served. It was one that long will be remembered by those who were lucky enough to have been along on the outing. It was prepared under the personal supervision of Fred J. Mersheimer, who has had years of experience in arranging for clam bakes, shad bakes, shore dinners and other like feasts. Baked clams, crab soup, fried soft shell crabs, crab meat cocktail, deviled crabs and fried chicken were just a few of the good things that were served.

Keeps Things on Go.
While the dinner was under way Chairman R. Edwin Joyce of the entertainment committee kept things on the go. Assisting him was "Tom" Fisher and George Wainwright. President P. T. Moran made a brief speech in which he complimented Chairman Mersheimer on the success of the outing. Mr. Mersheimer had as his guest on the excursion J. F. Carter of New York, cable agent of the Western Union cable system. Mr. Carter showed the members of the chamber that he is "some" base ball player.

At 6:30 o'clock the excursionists started for home, arriving in Washington about 8 o'clock.
